DETAILED ACTION

Restrictions

- I. Claims 1-7, drawn to a biopsy device with hollow sleeve.
- II. Claims 8-14, drawn to a biopsy device with a handle, piercer, and electrode.
- III. Claims 15-10, drawn to a method of performing of performing a medical procedure.

Inventions I and III are related as process and apparatus for its practice. The inventions are distinct if it can be shown that either: (1) the process as claimed can be practiced by another materially different apparatus or by hand, or (2) the apparatus as claimed can be used to practice another and materially different process. (MPEP § 806.05(e)). In this case, the apparatus, as claimed in Claim 1, can be use as an articulating ionizable gas coagulator.

Inventions I and II are related as combination and subcombination. Inventions in this relationship are distinct if it can be shown that (1) the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed for patentability, and (2) that the subcombination has utility by itself or in other combinations (MPEP § 806.05(c)). In the instant case, the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed because the combination in Claim 1 does not require the particulars of the handle or the piercer in Claim 8. The subcombinations have separate utility. The handle could be used to grip a wide range of medical devices and a piercer could be used to pierce the top of a collection vial.

During a telephone conversation with Gerry Gressel on January 18, 2006 a provisional election was made with traverse to prosecute the invention of Group I, Claims 1-7. Affirmation of this election must be made by applicant in replying to this Office action. Claims 8-20 are withdrawn from further consideration by the examiner, 37 CFR 1.142(b), as being drawn to a non-elected invention.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Burbank et al. (US Patent No. 6,689,071). Burbank et al. discloses a biopsy device comprising:

a hollow sleeve (112 or 140) adapted to receive a tissue piercing element therein, the sleeve comprising a proximal end (225), a distal end (122), and a tissue receiving opening (148 to proximal end of 122) disposed intermediate the proximal end and the distal end; and at least one electrode (126) disposed on the sleeve.

Regarding claims 2 & 3, Burbank et al. also discloses a biopsy device, wherein the sleeve has an open distal end (abstract) and at least one electrode (142) is associated with the tissue receiving opening (Figure 5 & 148).

In regards to claims 4 & 5, Burbank et al. further discloses a biopsy device comprising at least two electrodes (126 & 142) and wherein the first (126) and second (142) electrodes are associated with the edges of the tissue receiving opening (Figure 5).

Regarding claim 6, Burbank et al. discloses a sleeve comprising a connector (231 & 227 to 210 & 220, respectively) for releasably attaching the sleeve to a biopsy device (Claim 8).

With regard to claim 7, Burbank et al. discloses a biopsy device wherein the at least one electrode (142) is operatively connected to a source of electrical energy (106 & Column 8, lines 1-3).

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Eggers et al. (US Publication No. 2002/0019596) and Burbank et al. (US Publication No. 2003/0144605 and 2005/0090762) both disclose a biopsy device with outer hollow sleeve and electrodes.
